Reflections

Pastor Caleb Hughes

Beauty in the Dark

I was taught at a young age—likely some of you were as well—that plant life needs three things to grow/survive: good soil, water, and sunlight. It doesn't get much more elementary than that! But I recently read something that caught my eye.

Did you know there are several flowers that can only bloom in the moonlight, in the dark? Flowers like moonflowers and evening primroses can only be seen in their full beauty and glory after nightfall, in the dark.

Our lives are full of the dark times, times that light is far from us, times that feelings of discouragement, hurt, anxiety, etc. are nearer than joy and gladness. Sometimes we can be afraid of the dark. But perhaps we should more greatly fear not being able to behold the fruit that can only grow in such an environment. Just like those flowers, there are some aspects of your spiritual life that can only bloom in the dark.

Do you find yourself in the dark? Perhaps God means to produce a kind of beauty and fruit in you that you have yet to see. Trust him today to love and lift you through the dark times.
