Your Father's Happiness

I was coaching our 7-year-old's (Zion) Upward basketball team over the weekend. He's rarely happier than when he's playing some sort of sport/game with his buddies. I get so much delight seeing him play ball.

Every once in a while, I believe God gives me glimpses of His heart through the relationship I have with my children, and He does so differently with my sons and daughters. The relationship between a father and son is special; God has made it so. There are several things I could say about this, but one is that not only do I delight in seeing Zion do what he enjoys; he delights in playing in a way that pleases his father (me). I always want to see him "perform" well, but for me, I genuinely want him to have fun, have a good attitude, and do his best. That is "performing" well.

There was a moment in his basketball game where he made a long-range shot, turned and looked at me, and we both beamed with joy—me at his pleasure and him at mine. It was mutual joy feeding off of one another. Zion's joy resulted from a son's effort to the delight of the father and mine a father's affirmation to the delight of the son.

It was this moment that made me contemplate our relationship with our heavenly Father, especially in light of what we saw in 1 Corinthians 3 this past Sunday. We referenced the "reward" of living in the favor of the master, tying in parables of Jesus in Matthew 25 and Luke 19:

"Well done, good and faithful servant...Come and share in your Master's happiness."

Our Father wants to see us full of joy. He wants our joy to come from "playing" the right way—with the right heart attitude, with obedience, and in living each day to serve the Master with your whole self.

Zion isn't a perfect ball player. His attitude sometimes stinks. Sometimes he doesn't try his best...Just like me and you in life. But my love for him and the Father's love for you are not based on perfect performance. They are based on a Father's love.

God's love for you is not based on you but on him. You are his, and if you need evidence of that, look to His Son, who took the shame and scorn, so that you and I could receive the glory and favor.

Because of him, we can share in our Father's happiness.
